Foreword

Dear Readers,

This first edition of the Directory of the National Assembly is designed to provide all citizens with the tools and information necessary to better understand the duties and responsibilities of the Cambodian National Assembly. As the people's representatives, Members of the National Assembly play a critical role in ensuring a vibrant democracy in the Kingdom of Cambodia.

In the past, interaction between the National Assembly and Cambodian citizens has been limited. We believe that knowledge of each Member's education, legislative interests, and background, as well as the roles and responsibilities in the National Assembly will help create greater awareness and build bridges between the National Assembly and the Cambodian people.

Creating this handbook involved the efforts of many individuals and organizations. We gratefully acknowledge and thank the following for their kind cooperation: Members of the National Assembly, the Secretary General of the National Assembly, the National Election Committee, and staff of the National Assembly.

Sincerely,

KOUL Panha
Executive Director
COMFREL

HANG Puthea
Executive Director

Brief History of the National Assembly

The current National Assembly originated as the Constituent Assembly, a legislative body elected during the United Nations Transitional Authority in Cambodia (UNTAC). After the 1993 election, the Constituent Assembly met and adopted a new constitution for Cambodia. After enactment of the 1993 Constitution, the Constituent Assembly was renamed the National Assembly.

Note: The Commission names above are based on the amendments by the National Assembly of 14 February 2005.

The Role of the National Assembly

The primary function of the National Assembly is to adopt laws that will govern Cambodia. According to the Constitution of the Kingdom of Cambodia, legislation can be initiated by Members of the National Assembly, Senators, or the Prime Minister (Article 91 of the Cambodian Constitution).

The Constitution also gives the National Assembly the power to hold accountable and question the Prime Minister and the Council of Ministers (Article 96). The National Assembly has the power to dismiss the Prime Minister, individual Ministers, or the Royal Government (Article 98).

An Open, Public, and Transparent Legislative Process

Transparency in lawmaking is a key element for any democracy. With rare exceptions, whenever proposed laws are discussed or votes are cast, the proceedings should be open for all citizens to observe. Otherwise, the public cannot adequately judge the quality of the decisions made by their elected representatives (Article 88).

Rights of the Public in Cambodia Constitution

- The National Assembly sessions shall be held in public (Article 88).
- Laws that are signed by the King for promulgation shall be published in the official journal and announced to the public throughout the country (Article 93).

Powers of the Assembly

- Consists of at least 120 members (Article 76)
- Meets twice a year for at least three months (Article 83)
- Holds sessions in public
- Adopts Laws that will govern Cambodia
- Creates its own budget (Article 81)
- Elects the Prime Minister and individual Ministers
- Approves the national budget, loans, administrative accounts and all taxation measures (Article 90)
- Oversees the actions of the Royal Government and requests explanations (Article 89)
- Establishes Commissions to oversee the actions and check the spending power of the Royal Government
- Censures or Dismisses individual members of the Royal Government or the entire Royal Government (Article 96/98)
- Adopts or repeals treaties, International Conventions, and proclamations of war (Article 90)

The Role of Members of the National Assembly

As direct representatives of the all Cambodians, not just their constituency, Members of the National Assembly play an important role in helping Cambodian citizens have a voice in the democratic process. Members are elected through a free, universal, equal, direct and secret ballot. Each Member serves for five years and may be re-elected. A Member has "parliamentary immunity" and cannot be prosecuted, detained or arrested because of opinions expressed during the exercise of his or her duties without special actions. (Article 80)

Once elected, Members of the National Assembly have the power to:

- Propose legislation for new laws or amendments to existing laws (Article 91)
- Vote on the membership of Commissions (Article 82)
- Ask Government to explain their policies or actions (Article 96)
- Vote on legislation, international conventions, proclamations of war, and treaties (Article 90)
- Dismiss or appoint members of the Royal Government (Article 98)

Criteria for a Member of the National Assembly:

- Open to men and women (Article 76)
- Must have the right to vote (Article 76)
- At least 25 years old (Article 76)
- Khmer nationality at birth (Article 76)
- Cannot hold any other active public function unless required to serve in the Royal Government (Article 79)

Permanent Standing Committee of the National Assembly

Since the National Assembly only meets twice a year for three-month sessions, the Permanent Standing Committee manages the work whenever the National Assembly is not in session. The Permanent Standing Committee consists of the President of the National Assembly, two Vice Presidents, and the Chairpersons of the nine Commissions. (Article 84)

Commissions of the National Assembly

Under the Constitution, the National Assembly is allowed to establish legislative commissions. Currently, there are nine Commissions, each consisting of a Chairperson, Vice-Chairperson, and Secretary who are elected by the National Assembly. Each Commission consists at least seven members. (Article 94)

Individual Commissions focus on specific areas and oversee the work of the Ministry (or Ministries) responsible for that sector. For example, the Commission on Economics, Finance, Banking, and Auditing examines the activities of the Ministry of Economy and Finance and the National Bank of Cambodia. To fulfill its responsibility, each Commission may request that members of the Royal Government appear in person in order to respond to questions. The Commission may also require Ministers to reply to questions in writing.

The Legislative Process

Any Member of the National Assembly may propose legislation referred to as Proposed Law. A Proposed Law must be written, divided into articles and accompanied by a statement of cause explaining why the Proposed Law is needed. The Proposed Law is forwarded to the appropriate Commission for review.

Alternatively, a law initiated by a particular Ministry or the Council of Ministers is called Draft Legislation. The Council of Ministers reviews and may approve the Draft Legislation. The Council of Ministers then submits the Draft Legislation and a statement of cause to the Permanent Standing Committee of the National Assembly. The Permanent Standing Committee reviews the Draft Legislation and forwards it to the appropriate Commission. Below is an example of a legislative process:

If approved by the National Assembly, the President of the National Assembly delivers the draft/proposed law to the President of the Senate.

11

The Permanent Standing Committee of the Senate reviews the draft or proposed law and forwards it to the appropriate Commission.

10

The President of the Senate hands the draft/proposed law to the Permanent Standing Committee of the Senate.

13

The Senate and the National Assembly send the draft/proposed law back and forth to make final changes to the draft/proposed law. If voted on and approved by the Senate and the National Assembly one last time, the President of the National Assembly delivers the draft/proposed law to the King.

15

The King signs a Royal Decree turning the draft/proposed law into a law.

12

The appropriate Senate Commission reviews the draft/proposed law and either:

1. Recommends that the full Assembly not consider the legislation.
2. Requests that the full Assembly decide whether to consider the legislation.
3. Requests that the full Assembly consider the legislation on an "emergency" basis.

14

The Constitutional Council has the power to interpret whether a law passed by the National Assembly and fully reviewed by the Senate is constitutional.

The Secretariat (Office of the Secretary General)

The Secretariat, the administrative arm of the National Assembly, consists of two officers: a Secretary General and a Deputy Secretary General. The officers and staff of the Secretariat are not elected officials nor are they appointed by any political party. The two officers are nominated by the President of the National Assembly and appointed by Royal Decree. The remainder of the staff are nominated by the the President of the National Assembly on the proposal of the Secretary General.

The Secretary General is responsible for maintaining the documents and records of the National Assembly and the Commissions, preparing reports required by the National Assembly, and managing administrative affairs and all contacts outside the Assembly.

Relevant Provisions of the Constitution

Please note that the following translation of the Constitution of the Kingdom Of Cambodia is not an official one, as an official English version does not currently exist.

CHAPTER VII: THE NATIONAL ASSEMBLY (Last updated May 2005)

Article 76:

The National Assembly consists of at least 120 members.

The deputies shall be elected by a free, universal, equal, direct and secret ballot.

The deputies may be re-elected.

Khmer citizens able to stand for election shall be the Khmer citizens of either sex, who have the right to vote, at least 25 years of age, and who have Khmer nationality at birth.

Preparation for the election, procedure and electoral process shall be determined by an Electoral Law.

Article 77:

The deputies in the National Assembly shall represent the entire Khmer people, not only Khmers from their constituencies.

Any imperative mandate shall be nullified.

Article 78:

The legislative term of the National Assembly shall be 5 years and terminates on the day when the new National Assembly convenes.

The National Assembly shall not be dissolved before the end of its term except when the Royal government is twice deposed within a period of twelve months. In this case, following a proposal from the Prime Minister and the approval of the Chairman of the National Assembly, the King shall dissolve the National Assembly.

The election of a new National Assembly shall be held no later than 60 days from the date of dissolution. During this period, the Royal government shall only be empowered to conduct routine business.

In time of war or other special circumstances where an election cannot be held, the National Assembly may extend its term for one year at a time, upon the request of the King.

Such an extension shall require at least a two-third vote of the entire National Assembly.

Article 79:

The National Assembly mandate shall be incompatible with the holding of any active public function and of any membership in other institutions provided for in the Constitution, except when the assembly members (s) is (are) required to serve in the Royal Government.

In this circumstance, the said assembly member (s) shall retain the usual assembly membership but shall not hold any position in the Permanent Standing Committee and in other assembly commissions.

Article 80:

The deputies shall enjoy parliamentary immunity.

No assembly member shall be prosecuted, detained or arrested because of opinions expressed during the exercise of his (her) duties.

The accusation, arrest, or detention of an assembly member shall be made only with the permission of the National Assembly or by the Standing Committee of the National Assembly between sessions, except in case of flagrant delicto. In that case, the competent authority shall immediately report to the National Assembly or to the Standing Committee for decision.

The decision made by the Standing Committee of the National Assembly shall be submitted to the National Assembly at its next session for approval by a 2/3 majority vote of the assembly members.

In any case, detention or prosecution of a deputy shall be suspended by a 3/4 majority vote of the National Assembly members.

Article 81:

The National Assembly shall have an autonomous budget to conduct its function. The deputies shall have received remuneration.

Article 82:

The National Assembly shall hold its first session no later than sixty days after the election upon notice by the King.

Before taking office, the National Assembly shall decide on the validity of each member's mandate and vote separately to choose a Chairman, Vice-Chairmen and members of each Commission by a 2/3 majority vote.

All National Assembly members must take oath before taking office according to the text contained in Annex 5.

Article 83:

The National Assembly shall hold its ordinary session twice a year.

Each session shall last at least three months. If there is a proposal from the King or the Prime Minister or at least 1/3 of the National Assembly members, the National Assembly Standing Committee shall call an extraordinary session of the National Assembly.

In this case, the agenda with the conditions of the extraordinary session shall be disseminated to the population as well as the date of the meeting.

Article 84:

Between the National Assembly sessions, the National Assembly Standing Committee shall manage the work of the National Assembly.

The Permanent Standing Committee of the National Assembly consists of the Chairman of the National Assembly, the Vice-Chairmen, and the Chairmen of National Assembly Commissions.

Article 85:

The National Assembly sessions shall be held in the Royal Capital of Cambodia in the Assembly Hall, unless stipulated otherwise in the summons, due to special circumstances. Except where so stipulated and unless held at the place and date as stipulated, any meeting of the National Assembly shall be considered as illegal and void.

Article 86:

If the country is in a state of emergency, the National Assembly shall meet every day continuously. The National Assembly has the right to terminate this state of emergency whenever the situation permits.

If the National Assembly is not able to meet because of circumstances such as the occupation by foreign forces the declaration of the state of emergency must be automatically extended.

During the state of emergency, the National Assembly shall not be dissolved.

Article 87:

The Chairman of the National Assembly shall chair the assembly session; receive draft bills and resolutions adopted by the National Assembly, ensure the implementation of the Internal Rules of Procedure and manage the assembly relations with foreign countries.

If the Chairman is unable to perform his/her duties due to illness or to fulfill the function of Head of State as interim or as a Regent, or is on a mission abroad, a Vice-Chairman shall replace him.

In case of resignation or death of the Chairman or the Vice-Chairman (men), the National Assembly shall elect a new Chairman or Vice-Chairman (men).

Article 88: (New - amended May 2005)

The National Assembly sessions shall be held in public.

The National Assembly shall meet in closed session at the request of the Chairman or of at least 1/10 of its members, of the King or of the Prime Minister.

The National Assembly meeting shall be considered as valid provided there is:

a) a quorum of 7/10 of all members for any approval that requires by a 2/3 or 3/4 majority vote of the assembly members.

b) a quorum of 6/10 of all members for any approval that requires by a comparative or absolute majority vote of the assembly members.

Article 89:

Upon the request by at least 1/10 of its members the National Assembly shall invite a high ranking official to clarify important special issues.

Article 90: (New - amended March 1999)

The National Assembly is the only an organ which has legislative power, and performs its duties as provided for in the constitution and laws.

The National Assembly shall approve the national budget, State planning, loans, financial contracts, and the creation, modification and annulment of tax.

The National Assembly shall approve administration accounts.

The National Assembly shall adopt the law on the general amnesty.

The National Assembly shall adopt or repeal treaties and International Convention.

The National Assembly shall adopt the law on proclamation of war.

The adoption of the above clauses shall be done by the absolute majority of all members of the entire National Assembly membership.

The National Assembly shall pass a vote of confidence in the Royal Government by a two-third majority of all members of the entire National Assembly membership.

Article 91: (New - amended March 1999)

The members of the Senate, the members of the National Assembly and the Prime Minister have the right to initiate legislation.

Deputies have the right to propose amendments to the laws but these proposals cannot be accepted if they aim at reducing public income or increasing the burden on the people.

Article 92:

Laws adopted by the National Assembly which run counter to the principles of preserving national independence, sovereignty, territorial integrity, and affect the political unity or the administration of the nation shall be annulled. The Constitutional Council is the only organ which shall decide upon this annulment.

Article 93: (New - amended March 1999)

Any law approved by the assembly and finally reviewed by the Senate and signed by the King for its promulgation shall go into effect in Phnom Penh ten days after its signing and throughout the country twenty days after its signing.

Laws that are stipulated as urgent shall take effect immediately throughout the country after promulgation.

Laws that are signed by the King for its promulgation shall be published in the official journal and announced it to the public throughout the country.

Article 94:

The National Assembly shall establish various necessary commissions. The organization and functioning of the National Assembly shall be determined by the Internal Rules of Procedure of the National Assembly.

Article 95:

In case of death, resignation, or dismissal of an assembly deputy at least 6 months before the end of the mandate, a replacement shall be appointed in accordance with the Internal Rules of Procedure of the National Assembly and the Electoral Law.

Article 96:

The deputies have the right to put a motion against the Royal Government. The motion shall be submitted in writing through the Chairman of the National Assembly.

The replies shall be given by one or several ministers depending on the matters related to the accountability of one or several ministers. If the case concerns the overall policy of the Royal Government, the Prime Minister shall reply in person.

The explanations by the ministers or by the Prime Minister shall be given verbally or in writing.

The explanations shall be provided within 7 days after the day when the question is received.

In case of verbal reply, the Chairman of the National Assembly shall decide whether to hold an open debate or not. If there is no debate, the answer of the minister or the Prime Minister shall be considered final. If there is a debate, the questioner, other speakers, the ministers, or the Prime Minister may exchange views within the time-frame not exceeding one session.

The National Assembly shall establish one day each week for questions and answers. There shall be no vote during any session reserved for this purpose.

Article 97:

The National Assembly commissions may invite any minister to clarify certain issues under his/her field of responsibility.

Article 98:

The National Assembly shall dismiss a member or members of the Royal Government or the whole Cabinet by the adoption of a motion of censure by 2/3 majority of the entire National Assembly.

The motion of censure shall be proposed to the National Assembly by at least 30 assembly members in order for the entire National Assembly to decide.
